About the Journal

The Journal of Advanced Nursing and Health Systems Innovation (JANHSI) is an international, peer-reviewed, open-access scholarly journal dedicated to advancing knowledge, theory, and practice in the fields of nursing and health systems. JANHSI serves as a global platform for the dissemination of high-quality original research, systematic reviews, conceptual papers, and innovative practices that contribute to the improvement of healthcare quality, patient outcomes, and health system performance.

The journal welcomes interdisciplinary perspectives and encourages contributions that integrate clinical nursing practice, nursing management, education, policy analysis, and health system innovation. JANHSI particularly emphasizes research that addresses contemporary challenges in healthcare, evidence-based practice, digital health, patient safety, workforce development, leadership, and health service transformation.

By promoting scientific rigor, ethical integrity, and international collaboration, JANHSI aims to support academics, practitioners, policymakers, and healthcare leaders in generating impactful knowledge that drives sustainable improvements in nursing practice and health systems globally.
